A bibliography is an alphabetical list of all the sources you have consulted for an essay or research paper. You must list your sources in a specific format. Use this guide to create your bibliography.

Remember:
- Information needed is found on the title page and first few pages: author, title, place, publisher, and date.
- Always italicize the title of the work cited.
- Alphabetize by the author’s last name (Use title, if no author)
- Always indent the second line (5 spaces).
- Double space between each line and each entry.
- If more than one place of publication is given, the closest one mentioned is used.
- If more than one date is given, the most recent one is selected.
